Whaling Fleet of 1887.

The catch of the whaling fleet during the past season has been the most successful for past season has been the most successful to several years. All of the vessels of the Arctic and Okhotsk fleets have arrived, the last November 14th, and the following table shows the eatch. It will be observed that the amount of Ivory brought by the fleet is very light. This is caused by little attention being while to Walros hunting. The reports of the catch are as follows:

Some Kohala Views.

Entron Garrite:—Poor people who have no came growing, and depend for an occa-sional cake or chicken pie on the product of our hen coop, would be very glad indeed to know, if the managers who introduced the terrible mongouse cannot be made responsi-ble for the depredations done by that dreadful fee of our fowls.

Tal toe of our rows.

There is now a great deal of talk about establishing in every island a nuch-needed hospital. I, of course, as any man who has the heart at the right place, appland so bumans a project, but cannot refrain from presenting a few remarks respecting the location of said establishment. For instance. Hilo claims in Hawaii that useful institution. As the capital she has a right to it, but as a hospital's first aim is to alleviate suffering, I think that town ought to be the last one selected, as her damp and sultry air is proverbial. Besides, as it would be cruelty is proverbial. Designes, as it would be tradely to job a sick person over rocky roads, and through dangerous guiches, the only suitable convenience would be by steamer. Well, how will the poor wretches from Puna, Kau, South and North Kona, reach Hilo. Will they have to come to Mahukona, where there is not even accommodation for healthy people of the property of th ple, and wait there amongst sand and rocks for two weeks, for next volcano trip? If that is the case, why not establish the hospital there at once, or rather in North Kohala with its genial climate, bracing air, and constant tradewind. Every week the sick from Hamakus, Hilo and South Kohala can be transmakua, Hilo and South Aonaia can be transported to Mahukona, and from thence by rail, to any part of Kohaia where the Government may choose to build the hospital, and every other week it will be possible to reach Mahukona from any district of the island. Mere humanity dictates Kohaia as the site of the proposed hospital.

These remarks may also be taken into consideration in the selection of a location for our jury court, as I think that an out of way place, presenting such poor accommodations as Waimea, is not the desirable resort. Crvis.

Hilo Letter-

Great Pluvious! How it did rain here last Satarday night and Sunday morning! It almost put me in mind of the times we had during the deluge. The weather for several days had been portending a downpour, and Saturday the atmosphere was thick and full of vapor in suspension. Several hard showers fell during the day but these were just preliminaries to what was to follow. About 7 o'clock in the evening it commenced and continued until 10 clock the next morning. continued until II o'clock the next morning. At times it seemed as if the clouds were an immense lake and the bottom slide bad been drawn out, so that the whole lake was supplying out. By 11 o'clock that night the Warlaka was so bigh that it almost reached the chains of the bridge nerves that stream and crowds of people went there in the pouring rain to see it. The river was a roaring, dashram to see it. The rest of the second countries ing tarrent carrying everything before it and presented a spectacle of magnificence, not soon forgotten, as it came rumbling and tumbling over the rocks at its mouth on its entry into the sea. At 130 a.m., the country was awakened by a clap of thunder which seemed to lift the roof off the house, followed within a couple of seconds by a most vivid flash of lightning which made everything brighter than day. Every person thought this clap of thunder was intended for himself only, and many a one pungled out of bed without rubbing his eyes. A very short time after another clap, equal in violence to the first, fell ou nerves braced ready for the worst and so did not cause the consternation of the first. If they settled down to a real worst and so did not cause the consternation of the first. It then settled down to a real genuine thunder shower equal in violence to many of the worst in Minnesota. The Blue Ribbon entertainment, even although it is run in a fresh water basis, had to be abandoned on Saturday evening, as the supply of water was entirely in excess of the demand. It would almost seem as if the Blue Ribbon movement, as far as it regards its entertainments, is fated far as it regards its en in this town. The zeal which was shown during the first couple of weeks has run out its supply, the audience is almost entirely composed of the performers and lastly the water comes down and keeps them at home. It never did draw the class it was intended

On Saturday a teachers' examination was held by Mr. A. T. Atkinson, Inspector of Schools, and a large number of teachers were examined. A remodelling of some of the schools here promises in the near future a better prospect for the proper education of the young. During the past system of mis-rule our public schools degenerated until some of them became almost hopeless wreeks, but now, with a proper head and a new and proper system, we hope for an entire researation that will be productive of most fruitful results.

BEFORE JUDGE PRESTON. In re-estate of Charles Warren Clark, of Honolulu, deceased. The Court heard an application filed by the widow for probate of the will, no one appearing to contest. The subscribing witnesses to the will were Pierre Jones and J. M. Monsarrat. Both testified as to the due execution of the will. The Court admitted the will to probate, and or-dered letters testamentary to issue to Mrs. Ellen P. Clark, the executrix, she being erempted by the will from giving bond. The property consists of a homestead on Libba street, Honolulu, and a piece of land on the Island of Molokat, valued at $1,600. The will devises all the property to the widow, her heirs and assigns. The decessed left as heirs a son and a deughter. It is understood faithough there is no mention of it in the will) that there is a policy of insurance. 40) of other nationalities.
